

Terms of Service for Soul Readings and Whole Light Readings

A soul reading is an invitation for you to expand into greater conscious awareness of the many aspects of your soul record. This compilation of all that you have been, are now or ever will be is ever-changing. It contains the attributes with which you came into this world, in this incarnation, based upon what you wish to experience as Source in the present time/space continuum ~ as your part of that which continues.

Within this context, you are the star of the drama, the story you are creating right now, even as you are reading these words. Everyone else within your fictional novel is a supporting actor who has agreed to assist you in exploring this area of consciousness as you chose when you were not in a physical body.

Once you embraced this human body that is allowing you to move around in this dimensional frequency, you began to assign beliefs, ideas and expectations of your supporting actors. The more actors you auditioned for your play, the greater and more complex are your beliefs and designations for all of these generous beings who have accepted your offer to play out this story with you. One of the results of your scriptwriting may be the desire to appear special or receive extraordinary notice from others. You may chalk this up to your ego personality's insecurity in physical form.

You also assign beliefs and expectations regarding how your life is to play out based upon the information furnished you by all of those you perceive as authority figures in this life. As you assume the structure of these beliefs, make them appear to be yours, you extend them into the ever-changing energy waves of this continuum creating your reality. Every belief you hold sacred and true creates that which you believe is real and your expectations and anticipations of all those supporting you become part of that reality. That which is real is real only to you.

When we (your Higher Self in open communication within my Higher Self) view your soul record, we see the potential you carry, the possibilities open to you and the avenues you have decided to use within this life within present time. Viewing your soul allows a greater understanding that all of your interactions with every other person/actor in your life are an opportunity for increased expansion and awareness of yourself as Source in form. From this vantage point, we are able to point a direction in which to focus your attention to more aptly express that which you initially appointed as the commission of this lifetime.

When you request a soul reading, you are agreeing that you are the creator of your life as you are now experiencing it. You agree that there are no victims, perpetrators, doers of right or wrong within your life. All is experience.

In addition, when requesting a soul reading, you agree to present areas of focus for the reading that incorporate only those points of attention that will assist you in becoming more aware of yourself as Source in physical form. You are solely and absolutely responsible for every action, interaction and response you experience in this life.

If you are requesting a Whole Light Reading from the Orbs of Light, they will only address the information as above described. Without judgment, opinion or concern for your personal belief systems, the Whole Light Beings express their view of you from a realm of limitless compassion and unconditional love.
