

The DNA of Enlightenment

Reverend Doctor Toni Petrinovich

Bonus Material

We provide this material for your information. It is not intended to substitute for professional counseling and/or the advice of your primary health care provider. We encourage you to follow the directions and advice of your professional counselor and/or primary health care provider. The mention of any product, service, or therapy is not an endorsement by Reverend Doctor Toni Petrinovich or Sacred Spaces.

Copyright Sacred Spaces

Reverend Doctor Toni Petrinovich
PO Box 426
Lopez Island WA 98261
www.sacredspaceswa.com
toni@sacredspaceswa.com

Photo credits:

Cover photo – Helix nebula near the center of the Milky Way Galaxy courtesy of NASA

Scientific photos – courtesy of daviddarling.info

Twelve Dimensions and DNA

There are countless dimensions in the multiverse. Science is presently working with the theory of 11 infinite dimensions. Since the physics math works, it creates an ability to reconcile string theory and the origination of the universes in a way that the human, scientific mind can understand.

An explanation of the first 12 metaphysical and physical dimensions within this universe is given below to acquaint you with the applicable fields within which your DNA exists.

Twelve: A combination of unity and the dual/polar realms. In this plane exists Creative Source focusing on individuation. All existing realities merge in this dimension. The 12 strand DNA resides within the awareness of itself as I AM within this realm.

Eleven: Origin of creation exists here as the one (1) and the one (1) combine to bring about manifestation. The Divine Feminine Principle and the Divine Masculine Principle - together they co-create all universes and forms through intention, sound and creative desire.

Ten: Formless universes; the one (1) and the no thing (0). These universes in formation are not dense yet the imaginal cell of their beingness is present. Spirit is breathed into all matter here.

Nine: Frequencies taking form. From the universes of the multiverse to the human body, consciousness arranges itself here as the life-force that gives birth to creation within patterns, archetypes and interdependent relationships.

Eight: Individuation as souls and groups of souls. This dimension houses the soul within its group out of which it manifests, works, plays and learns. These experiences are recorded within the Akashic Field/Record.

Seven: What humans call angels; energetic creations emerging through divine intention sharing manifestation with beings inhabiting more physical bodies. These beings exist as infinite harmony.

Six: Akashic Records within which reside the experiences, memories and all that is created within I AM.

Five: Fearless, love-based dimension that is often visited when people have near death experiences. Here all moves through thought without limitation or awareness of separation.

Four: Realm of emotion and polarity. Home to what is known by humanity as time, a method of separating the now into the past, present and future.

Three: Manifestation of thoughts into physicality through electromagnetic frequencies. Awareness of separation through etheric frequencies housing the physical and holding memory within the hologram of the One.

Two: Animals and plants knowing their connection in all of the dimensions and using instinctive intuition to communicate with humans while holding the vibration of loving, giving and sharing.

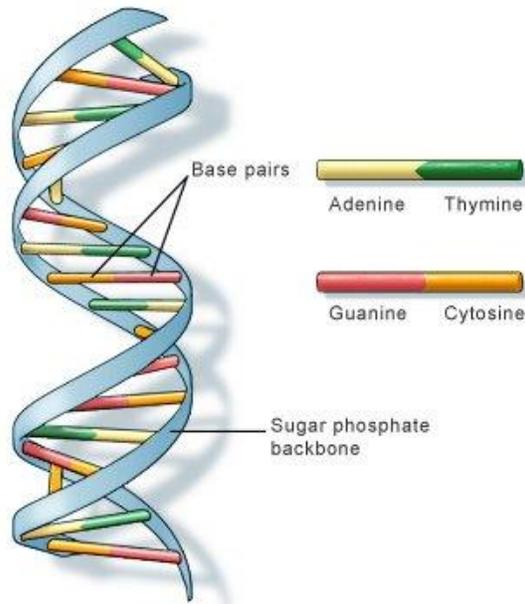

One: Minerals and basic constituents of physical life. As the chemicals, minerals and fluids make up the human body, so do the members of this kingdom make up the body of the earth. Within this dimension is humanity's most ancient memories and blueprints.

DNA

A molecule of DNA consists of two chains, strands of a large number of chemical compounds, called nucleotides, linked together to form a chain. These chains are arranged like a ladder that has been twisted into the shape of a winding staircase, a double helix. Each nucleotide consists of three units: a sugar molecule called deoxyribose, a phosphate group, and one of four different nitrogen-containing compounds called bases. All of this is coiled up within the cell.

The four bases are adenine (A), guanine (G), thymine (T), and cytosine (C).

The deoxyribose molecule occupies the center position in the nucleotide, flanked by a phosphate group on one side and a base on the other. The phosphate group of each nucleotide is also linked to the deoxyribose of the adjacent nucleotide in the chain. These linked deoxyribose-phosphate subunits form the parallel side rails of the ladder. The bases face inward toward each other, forming the rungs of the ladder (about 3 billion in all).

The nucleotides in one DNA strand have a specific association with the corresponding nucleotides in the other DNA strand. Because of the chemical affinity of the bases, nucleotides containing adenine are always paired with nucleotides containing thymine, and nucleotides containing cytosine are always paired with nucleotides containing guanine. The complementary bases are joined to each other by weak chemical bonds called hydrogen bonds.

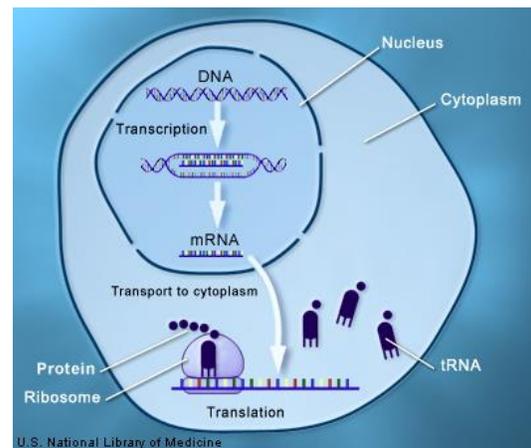

DNA carries the instructions for the production of proteins. A protein is composed of smaller molecules called amino acids, and the structure and function of the protein is determined by the sequence of its amino acids.

The sequence of amino acids, in turn, is determined by the sequence of nucleotide bases in the DNA. A sequence of three nucleotide bases, called a triplet, is the genetic code word, or codon, that specifies a particular amino acid. For instance, the triplet GAC (guanine, adenine, and cytosine) is the codon for the amino acid leucine, and the triplet CAG (cytosine, adenine, and guanine) is the codon for the amino acid valine. Therefore, 4 different bases times the number of combinations of 3 bases in a sequence equal 64.

The human body has 64 different codons regulating cell composition and cell function.

What is interesting here is that some of the codons appear to be “on” while some appear to be “off”. Does it have something to do with your sacred circuitry and your emotions? Each of the codons acts like an antenna finding resonance with a reference signal from the brain. Why are only 20 of your 64 combinations enabled? (In addition, there are 3 additional codes with no amino acid antenna. They are key sequences telling the genetic processors when to “start” and when to “stop”.)

Protein synthesis begins with the separation of a DNA molecule into two strands. In a process called transcription, a section of the strand acts as a pattern to produce a new strand called messenger RNA (mRNA). The mRNA leaves the cell nucleus and attaches to the ribosomes, specialized cellular structures that are the sites of protein synthesis. Each human cell contains 46 strands of chromosomes (made of DNA) that exist as 23 pairs. The chromosomes are comprised of genes and the genes create specific functions within the human body. The gene is also comprised of DNA.

Think of the chromosomes as a train. Each car in the train is a gene and the passengers are DNA. The coding of the gene is known as a protein. Each gene contains the codon sequence for a specific protein. The proteins are made up of amino acids. There are 64 codons available and only 20 are actually active. Another 3 contain stop and start codes for activating the 20. Science does not know the use of the remaining 41 codons.

When a gene is going to manufacture a specific protein, the DNA splits apart like a zipper and makes a copy of itself. Each molecule contains one of the original strands and one of the new strands. The genetic code on one of the strands is converted into a matching code on a strand of RNA, called messenger RNA.

The mRNA travels about until the environment is biochemically correct and it attracts amino acids in order to build the new protein. Upon completion, the new protein chain splits off from the mRNA and begins its function.

Each cell is conscious, knows its purpose and communicates. When a gene product is needed, a signal from its environment, not an emergent property of the gene itself, activates expression of the gene (brucelipton.com). Your intent stimulates the cell receptors. Your thoughts create cell processes.

The cells convert the signal and create change in the proteins based on physical sensation (perception). The proteins rely on the blueprint of the genes to give them the structure for change. Your perceptions select the activity of your genes. Genes will create a new blueprint if one does not exist.

DNA and RNA contain the signature of the Creative Force within their matrix of order. This mark of the maker is present throughout the human body yet is most predominant within the coding of that which gives the body life. Thus, the word spoken with intent into the electrochemical membrane where the DNA/RNA resides creates a tidal force of precise opening, activation and reconstruction within the perfected intention of the original blueprint. Awakening the twelve strands of DNA is the most natural process you can experience. mRNA carries the message of Light to the membrane itself upon the intended expression of the word through you as I AM.

The human body, as you know it, contains DNA in a two-strand configuration. Much like the unused 97% of your brain, you have another ten strands which are available to you under the right conditions and at the right time. Reconnecting and restructuring these DNA strands completes a circuitry in a multidimensional fashion affecting your Divine Blueprint. You then have access to twelve levels of spiritual, emotional, physical and mental awareness and information instead of two.

This restructuring process enables you to come more fully into the powers and abilities which are latent within you, i.e. clairvoyance/clairaudience, expanded memory of soul records and removal of imbedded fear and guilt used by the personal ego to hold the perception of separation.

In the earth plane, you have the ability to incorporate five other pairs of etheric DNA into your blueprint consciously. Consciously is the operative word for they reside there always, yet have not been instructed to activate. This is known as the 12 strand DNA system. These combinations are the connection to multidimensional conscious awareness.

Some beings on earth have more of a propensity for aligning with these frequencies yet all are capable of acquiring full 12 strand connection through active attention to this intentional act. The recoding reactivation process is done in the etheric bodies through the endocrine system into the body. The restructured DNA remains in the spiritual body in the etheric creating patterns that activate the emotional, mental and physical similitude with those bodies.

All life follows a pattern that humans call DNA. Your original physical form contains 12 strands of active DNA frequency codes. These codings (codons) were “disconnected” as humanity incorporated increasingly more density into the physical form to enable the corporeal experience. Biological science has discovered the first two strands of DNA in the physical body. The rest is labeled as “junk DNA” with no specific purpose.

The landscape that contains the unknown 97% of the strands of DNA also contains connecting points interfacing with “letters”. These “letters” form a repeating series of nucleotide base pairs. Since these are physical, they are simply a denser symbol of what lies within the etheric blueprint (codes) and hint at what awaits those who pursue the unfolding of this knowledge. As you embrace this divine heritage, you will begin to be more aware of your true nature, the I AM that underlies all of creation.

The codes are energetic connections (strands) to etheric dimensions. The etheric strands equal dimensional states. It is possible to awaken and to reintegrate these etheric strands with the physical strands within the body. This is done through intent, unfolding the molecular structure within the cells that comprise the wavelength of unconditioned, neutral, impersonal love. There are many different rituals and intentional work that is being done that assists this process. Yet, in the long run, your intent is the activating force and is what is necessary to carry through in this initiative.

Since you would be very uncomfortable if suddenly all 12 strands were to come into full activity at one time, one strand at a time is physically accessed through the etheric blueprint until you are comfortable with that strand and then another begins to pulse with Divine physical life. Meanwhile, all are vibrating in resonance on a spiritual level and sending encoded messages through the dimensions to your body in physicality.

The easiest and most consistent way to access your Cosmic DNA is through the recognition of unconditioned, impersonal love. The blueprint for neutral love resides within a matrix that creates the pathway of pure, compassionate awareness and acceptance of all creation. Your Divine knowing and spiritual intelligence creates a resonant frequency with this matrix and aligns you with that frequency.

The first pair of DNA governs physical life, as you know it. It instructs your genetic patterning, your metabolism and other attributes. Remember that these patterns can be changed by your thought patterns and your emotional energy waves. When you entered the birth canal to begin the journey into the field of this world, you began to accumulate around you the makings of the electromagnetic field (EMF) that would be uniquely yours. Upon entry into the earth's EMF, yours immediately coalesced and the two fields "met" each other. This was your first impression of this plane and it is seldom one of coherence.

As you become consciously aware of your own ability to control and create within your own world reality, these cellular memories are able to respond to the changes that you make in the Now. Alterations made in the thinking, emoting patterns of Now impact the past as well as the future. When eventually "looking back", you will be aware that the past is no longer what you experienced as you originally believed. It is a reassembled combination of events seen from a new reality, that of the reconnected thought patterns and emotional responses rather than reactions of the Now Moment.

The second pair (etheric) works within your emotional body. What your general emotional makeup emotes is controlled by this pair of double helix DNA.

Control of the mental processes can alleviate much of the entangling emotional constructs that occur here. This is the seat of telepathy and awareness of the Cosmic Mind.

Pair number three resides within the framework of your mental body. This interaction is maintained from the realm of the astral plane and is the center for the awakening of conscious memory recall of activity that occurs within all states of your consciousness.

This pair constructs the judgments, opinions, power struggles, ability to relate with the environmental world in which you live, anger, rage, anticipation, expectation and general sense of well-being. Resourceful implementation of this frequency generator contributes to a sense of balance, the ability to give voice to your power and impacts your daily activities in a most profound way.

The fourth pair of DNA governs the realm of the soul. Within this framework exist your patterns and the expression of what you come into this world to experience.

The fourth pair of DNA is the beginning of your remembrance of the world from whence you came. It is also operative with the configuration of the heart. The energetic pulse of the heart space creates union of the above and the below in the physical world. Since no thing exists in the physical without being totally dependent upon its blueprint and matrix of bio-energetic force field, the heart correlates with the soul and the divine experience of the being.

This set of strands governs the strengths you will acquire in this life, the work you will do for others on planet earth, your experiences and your ability to develop awareness of your Presence in manifestation. It is here that your original connection is manifest between the physical and spiritual realms. It holds the conscious positioning that spirit creates on its way into manifestation in this planet's solar influence.

The fifth pair of DNA strands works with your soul cluster, your group soul, those beings you came into this world to experience with. It controls the timing necessary to find and recognize these beings and to begin your mutual experience.

The fifth pair actively pursues your vocal, kinesthetic and auditory connections with the realms of the Multiverse. It is the operative center for the voice, swallowing and projection of energy through oral participation within this plane. The voice and the timber of its usage can create a sense of mercy, forgiveness, love and compassion.

The sixth pair of DNA aligns your 12-strand DNA with your awareness of I AM. It works with all of creation and incorporates your ability to resonate as Self, incorporating the awareness of your ego-personality as the God Self so that you live and operate as I AM. It is the actual marriage of the Beloved within to the individuated Self expressing as form within the dimensional realm of earth. This surrendering to the Self is the ultimate desire within the bodily construct of humanity.

Experiencing the Multidimensions

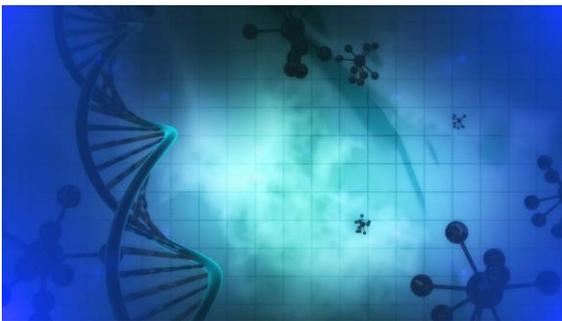

Through intention, attention and creative thought process, your feelings can be shifted to reflect the resurgence of energetic force that allows for health, well-being, longevity and appreciation of life. Your cells, genes and DNA rely on you to program them for well-being.

You will become more aware of the multidimensional capabilities that belong to the species as the remaining 41 codons (triplet nucleotide bases) are “turned on”. Since your DNA relies on you to create its environment, there is no time like the present to use intention, attention and creative verbalization to begin the process of awakening these slumbering life forms. You are a creator. What you desire and place your attention on becomes real. This power is easily harnessed to manifest a life filled with joy, peace and universal awareness. Through your intention, you create the Divine Life that is, and has been, yours since the beginning of creation.

There is a process in completing and activating DNA strands. These subtle energy forces are connected in the physical. The entire system is connected inter-dimensionally to the plasma system in the multiverse. The activation of the DNA strands that are not operative in the body is dependent upon the reception of the cosmic energy and the allowing of the molecular structure of the DNA to absorb that interdimensional frequency and vibration.

There are minute frequencies within the bioenergetic field of the body that keep the particles of each dimension from interacting with each other. Each strand operates correctly within the dimension that is appropriate for it. This keeps the body locked into its frequency within the dimension that the DNA operates. When activated, the DNA is able to interact between dimensions, then the particles integrate and living as Light becomes the norm.

DNA is a bridge between the physical and spirit. It creates and takes part in an ongoing unfoldment. The DNA strands contain more information than the most sophisticated storage devices that humanity has created. DNA is a language locked within the particle structure of the double helix. Activation of your DNA releases the codex within the serpentine structure and allows for the free flow of the information contained within it.

The total genetic information within the human DNA is a sequence of over 6 billion base pairs. Though the human genome has been mapped as 3 billion nucleotide pairs, most cells in the human body contain 6 billion pairs (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov>). The code that is known by modern science represents approximately 3% of the mapped human genome. The remaining 97% remains a mystery. Within this 97% exists the coding of your enlightenment. It contains the knowledge and information that brings awareness, clarity and intent to your awakening.

As the seals fall away from the stirring DNA, the living information begins to integrate and linkage occurs within the already present and performing DNA strands. This information accelerates the feeling nature and stirs the capability of impersonal, unconditioned love; the highest communion between the molecules of emotion and unconditioned love activates awareness of your Light Body.

As a sentient being, you are much more than an unrelated chemical processing machine with some type of interconnectedness. You are not the result of evolution or some random process of the cosmos. You are a-live in consciousness and One in Consciousness—the Conscious Awareness of All That Is. The more you open, the more you trust, the more you listen; more will be revealed to you. It makes no difference whether you live in 3D, 4D or a number of multidimensional states of awareness; you are still the complete composite of physical matter and Divine Consciousness. In other words—there are vibrations on all levels of dimensionality. They are all connected through the sympathy of all things in resonate harmony flowing in the physical plasma that unites physicality in this dimension.

All of these manifestations intermingle together. Each dimension, frequency, wavelength, particle and vibration has a function. One has a function to create different manifestations of life force. This energetic force exists in many different dimensions. When it creates life in a subtle framework, it affects life in the denser dimensions. The power of thought affects this manifestation and tells it what to do through the subtle thought realms and also through the denser realms of the earth plane.

This manifestation has many, many facets to it and while it sparks many types of life, it is not well understood. Since all is one, when the manifestation of which we speak is given the opportunity to avail itself of sparking new life, it performs its basic function. You are a creator within the Consciousness that is called Source in this realm. You have the ability, if you desire, to contact this manifestation and create using its harmonic frequencies to do so.

You can contact various portions of this manifestation in 12 different dimensions. You can request that it enliven the life spark that it contains in all of those dimensions including the physical plane and that through your conscious intention, that it awaken the memory of the Sovereign Connection that you are, enabling you to interact with these 12 dimensions in a more dynamic way. When you make this request, you will use the name that this manifestation has been given—DNA—Divine Nameless Awareness.